TO-DAY'S DISPATCHES.

A Bank Clerk Who Declined to Hold up His Hands.

Meeting of Fisheries Commission —The Czar in Berlin.

SUCCEEDING HIS FATHER.

BERLIN, Nov. 18.—The rumor is current that Prince William takes the place of the Crown Prince as President of the State Council.

WILL NOT BAT.

DUBLIN, Nov. 17.—Visitors to Tullamore jail say O'Brien has greatly changed and that he refuses to take food.

THE CZAR IS BERLIN.

BERLIN, Nov. 18.—The Czar of Russia arrived in Berlin this morning. Preparations to receive him were in keeping with his rank. Dense crowds of people were collected in Unter den Linden from Brandenburg gate to the depot, and the imperial party were greeted most enthusiastically as they passed along the thoroughfare.

AMERICAN NEWS.

MOST AT LIBERTY.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—John Most, the Anarchist, has been released in $1,500 bail.

RAILWAY SHOPS BURNED.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 18.—The immense car shops of the Cincinnati Southern Railway at Ludlow, Kentucky, opposite this city, were burned completely this morning, with all their contents. Loss over $200,000; they were insured.

WOULD NOT HOLD UP.

SALT LAKE, Nov. 18.—The report comes from Nephi that the attempt was made to rob the Bank of Nephi yesterday in broad daylight by Chas. R. Alfred and Jos. Justien. Cashier Hague and his assistant Stone were alone in the place at the time. The latter was just starting out when Justien pointed a revolver at him, commanding him to hold up his hands. Stone refused and jumped away, when the robber fired without effect. Hague escaped and alarmed the town. Everybody turned out to hunt for the robbers and both were captured and jailed.

DOWN AN ELEVATOR.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 17.—Geo. Asmussen, 15 years of age, elevator boy in the Bancroft building on Market street, fell down the elevator shaft, a distance of 600 feet this afternoon and received injuries from which he died this evening.

HAWAIIAN TREATY WITH U. S.

The Hawaiian legislature was opened Nov. 3 by King Kalakaua, who said in his speech: "I take great pleasure in informing you that a treaty of reciprocity with the United States has been definitely extended seven years with an additional clause granting to United States vessels the exclusive privilege of entering Pearl Harbor and establishing there a coaling and repair station. I regard this as one of the most important events of my reign and sincerely believe it will re-establish increased prosperity and prosperity which began with the reciprocity treaty."

A FLOATING VOLCANO.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 17.—A dispatch from Marquette this morning says: The steamer Arizona which left here on Wednesday night with a cargo of acids and nine hundred barrels of petroleum, began to pitch early yesterday morning and took fire. The gangway and hatches were closed and the crew of 23 men were driven to the sides of the vessel, where they hung on expecting every moment to be blown up. The captain who was hanging to the wheel steered the floating volcano for a breakwater here, which he successfully reached. Every man then leaped for his life and the Arizona burned to the water's edge. Loss, two hundred thousand dollars.

AN ORIGINAL PROPOSITION.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—A short time ago F. B. Thurber, chairman of the Commercial Union Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, wrote to Edward Atkinson, the well known political economist of Boston, for an expression of his views on the subject of Commercial Union with Canada. Atkinson has replied in a long letter, in which he takes the ground that not only does he favor such union, but also that he can discover no valid argument against it. The novel point of his letter, however, is contained in a paragraph referring to Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Cape Breton, seat of the fisheries dispute, and which the late Governor Andrew, of Massachusetts, is quoted as considering equal in productive capacity to New York and Philadelphia, exclusive of their fisheries. Atkinson says the population of the provinces is something less than a million people. These people have received little benefit from railway projects in the far West, on which Canada's money has been chiefly expended. But they must share the burden of the debt. Mr. Atkinson says, suppose the United States should buy them at a price equal to their share of Canada's debt—say forty to fifty million dollars. It would only cost five month's surplus of revenue. Would it be a good bargain for us, and would it be a good bargain for the provinces and the Dominion? It would enable the Dominion to complete the remainder of its railway system without incurring any further danger of loss to its credit.

THE COMMISSION.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Joseph Chamberlain, English member of the Fisheries Commission, Sir Charles Tupper, Canadian commissioner, and party, have arrived here. They will meet the American members of the Commission at the State Department early to-day, when they will come to an understanding as to the time of the sitting of the Conference. They will be presented to the Secretary of State by Mr. West, British Minister, but they will not call upon the President until Saturday. Chamberlain is accompanied by four Pinkerton detectives, who are in constant attendance.

THE PARTY OF DISORDER.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18.—A cablegram from London says: The party of disorder has been thrown into great confusion by the blow that has fallen on them. Their utter defeat on Sunday at Trafalgar square, then Gladstone's letter, then Bradlaugh's, then Labouchère's speech, then the stern sentence of the police courts to six months at hard labor, and now finally the decision to swear in special constables have disheartened even the most violent. Municipal radicals have voted to make no attempt next Sunday in Trafalgar square. The patriots will now content themselves with the park, but not for that reason are the precautions against a renewal of rioting to be discontinued. The square will still be held against all comers. Some of the federalists opposed the resolution, notably Bradlaugh's friend, Mrs. Besant. Mrs. Ashton Dilke, whom one regrets to see in such company, was for Hyde Park, but even Mrs. Ashton Dilke's influence may not be paramount over all the forces of law lessons which she aspires to direct. The swearing in of special constables goes on. The meeting in Hyde Park will not be interfered with, but peace will be kept and troops will again be under arms. So turbulent are the East End toughs that strong measures were taken last night to protect London in case predatory bands should take advantage of the thick fog for raids on the West End or suburbs, but all was quiet.

AN IMPROBABLE YARN.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—A special from Montreal says: "Political circles here are greatly agitated over a rumor that has gained currency last night and this morning. Ever since the Provincial Conference Montreal has been even a greater centre for political workers than Ottawa. A well known Conservative member of Parliament for the eastern townships, and a former Minister of Marine and Fisheries, were discussing the situation in a leading hotel, and the thin partition that separated their cabinet from the next one was not sufficient to prevent their talk being overheard. The member from the townships stands high in the estimation of the Government at Ottawa and is in a position to be a good wire-puller without letting the Government into it. Though acting on their behalf, he told the ex-Minister of Marine to be ready for a surprise. He said: "We will be annexed, and Sir John Macdonald is the man that is going to do it, that is if Canada does not get the lion's share out of the fisheries commission. If any such thing as commercial union is proposed, the present Government will have none of it, and the proposition will be sent to Washington that a peaceable separation be had from the British Government, and that the whole of the British dominion in North America be received into the federation of the United States in the shape of seven states and four territories."

This startling statement fell like a thunder clap among the political men, and the morning train to Ottawa was crowded with supporters of the Government anxious to find out how the land lies. There is great excitement since the story got about. It need not be surprising after all, since in 1849 Sir John was one of the most prominent workers in the then movement for annexation and again he declared himself in favor of it in 1872. Among the other leading men who signed the annexation declaration and who now stand high among the lawmakers, are Chief Justice Sir A. A. Dorion, Sir A. T. Galt, Sir John Rose, Henry Lyman, Sir Chas. Tupper, Canada's commissioner at Washington, Sir Leonard Tilley, J. J. C. Abbot, leader of the Senate, Judge Monk and Hon. R. Laflamme. History is repeating itself and with such an impetus that could it begin from Ottawa with the support the country at present gives the government the separation would be bloodless."

OVER LOADED.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 15.—The American ship Baring Brothers arrived yesterday afternoon from Seattle loaded with 3705 tons of coal consigned to the Oregon Improvement Company. On passing the bar she struck three or four times very violently, throwing the crew off their footing and instantly starting a serious leak. The pumps were at once started, but the water continued gaining, and on her arrival in port it was found necessary to beach her upon the Mission flat and to keep the pumps running all night. The Baring Brothers draws 27 feet and five inches of water and is heavily loaded. Her registered tonnage is only 2,000 and yet she carried almost twice that amount of coal. Complaints have been made by crews that in the present active demand for ships and the high freights that steamers and schooners from coast ports command vessels are loaded beyond their carrying capacity, and in the absence of stringent regulations relative to this matter that the lives of those on board are often endangered. The Baring Brothers is commanded by Captain Masters.

A shipping merchant taking this as a text, said to-day: "Some of our ships will go to the bottom yet, solely because they are overloaded. Its no use talking about loss of life; that is nothing, so long as ship and cargo are insured. During the past six months nine out of every ten coal vessels that left Puget Sound were overloaded. They were deep in the water. Their masters took the risk of disaster for the higher freights received. The owners of the ship Baring Brothers are not the only ones who have risked the lives of others for gold. The Barring Brothers registers 2091 tons, and 3750 tons of coal were in her hold. The ship Glory of the Seas, run by a Yankee named Freeman, registers 2009 tons, and has carried 3850. The ships Commodore, Indiana, Louisiana, Detroit, William H. Macy, Bohemia, Blue-jacket, Edward O'Brien, America, General Knox and others are similarly over-loaded. Of ships in Port from Puget Sound, the A. G. Ropes, registering 2542 tons, brought four thousand tons from Tacoma; the George F. Manson, registering 1353 tons, brought 2200 tons, and the ship, Sintram, registering 1590, brought 2568 tons."

CANADIAN NEWS.

A BOOM FOR ST. JOHN.

OTTAWA, Nov. 16.—It is considered probable here that the Canadian Government will grant a subsidy to a line of fast freight steamers to run between Liverpool and St. John, N. B. Should the experiment be successful passenger steamers will be put on. When the Short Line Railway is completed St. John is expected to become a rival of Portland, Maine.

ALASKA SEAL FISHERIES.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The Post editorially says of Judge Dawson's action concerning the Alaska fisheries: "The United States can, of course, prevent citizens of any other power from using their bays, inlets or islands, or shores, for fishing purposes; and can regulate the seal catch on any portion of their territory. But they cannot seize foreign ships on the open sea on a charge that they are doing something which is likely to diminish the value of the United States fisheries."

Thanksgiving Services.

Yesterday Thanksgiving services were held in the Presbyterian, Methodist and Episcopal churches in the city, which were attended by large congregations. The services were specially impressive and appropriate to the occasion.

THE SCAFFOLD.

Ah Chow Hanged at Lytton—He Tries to be Brave.

LYTTON, Nov. 18.—Ah Chow was executed in the jail yard here this morning at 8:10 for the murder of Ah Sue on March 14th last. Only a few spectators were admitted. The prisoner cried piteously while the preparations were being made. It was feared he would break down and have to be carried on the scaffold, but he rallied at last and asking for tobacco and paper rolled himself a cigarette, lit it and looking at the clock smoked until time was up. He threw it away and said he was ready; shook hands with and bade all present good bye and made a brave attempt to ascend the scaffold. The procession left the jail at exactly 8 o'clock in the following order: Hangman disguised, Rev. H. Edwards, of the Church of England, prisoner, supported by Constables Hussy and Armstrong, Sheriff Phair and Deputy Sheriff McKay, and spectators. When the scaffold was reached and the prisoner placed on the trap he looked down at it, his eyes closed and his head fell on his breast, and he showed no further consciousness of what was being done, and had to be held up by the constables while the noose and black cap were being placed over his head. While Rev. Edwards said prayer the sheriff gave the signal, the drop fell and the body swayed to and fro without the least sign of a struggle. The neck was dislocated, and he was pronounced dead in nine minutes after the fall. Afterwards the coroner's clerk held an inquest on the body. Great credit is due Sheriff Phair and Constables Hussey and Armstrong for having everything work in such an excellent manner. The body was buried in the public cemetery.

YALE NEWS.

The Weather—Wash out—Personals —The Lillooet Find.

The weather of late has been pretty wet, but this morning the ground is quite hard with frost, and a light mantle of snow covers the hill tops adjacent to the town.

Owing to the heavy rainfall the Sunday train from the west did not reach here until last night (Tuesday), it being delayed by slides between Port Moody and Vancouver, and a large washout between Agassiz and Harrison River. The train from the east reached here Sunday evening about 4 o'clock and remained until 9 o'clock the next morning, when she proceeded as far as Harrison River whence the passengers were transferred by boat to New Westminster. The section men and bridge men turned out in the drenching rain and worked like heroes until the obstruction was overcome, and everything is now serene.

Mr. Jonathan Nutt, caretaker of the government buildings, has been confined to his house for the past two or three weeks with a renewed attack of dropsy. Although he does not consider his case dangerous, yet the disease evidently has assumed a serious stage, but we hope for the best and his speedy recovery.

Our roots, vegetables and fruit are now about all housed and show a very good sample of the fertility of the soil here for garden products. Cabbages from 10 to 15 pounds and apples 1½ pounds may be considered a fair showing for this locality.

F. H. Collins, the London geologist, spent a couple of weeks investigating the mines of this and the Lillooet districts. He speaks in very flattering terms of the future prospects in store for both these districts, but considerable labor and money must be expended before the desired goal of fortune is reached. Mr. Collins in company with Mr. Teague, of the Queen mine, left for the coast a few days ago.

Several inflammatory reports have reached here of rich strikes in the Lillooet district. One man who recently arrived from there says the gold can be easily seen with the naked eye, being the size of a pin head and yields $480 to the ton. He says there is a whole mountain of it and millions lying around in the broken fragments at the base ready for the smelter.

Yale, Nov. 16.

Class Competition.

The artillery class firing and competition for Major Prior's Cup took place on Thursday, 17th inst, at Finlayson Point Battery. The target was placed on Clover Point, 1300 yards distant, though owing to the reduction of the charge from 8 to 6 lbs. the guns had to be sighted as far as 1500 yards. Eeach battery had a picked team of eight men. These eight men had two shots apiece, one shrapnell and one plug shell. The four best scorers were then picked to fire the remaining 12 rounds, two plug shell and one shrapnell apiece. The following is the score of No. 3 Battery:

One plug and one Shrapnel; possible 23—Sgt B Williams, 20; Sgt W Atkins, 13; Sgt J C Newbury, 20; Corp C Braund, 14; Br W P Winsby, 17; Gr E Flemming, 14; Gr H Flemming, 13; Gr A R Langley, 21; total, 132. Four men, 3 shots apiece, 2 plug shells, 1 Shrapnel; 6 minutes for 3 rounds time allowed; possible score, 24—Sgt Williams, 17; Sgt Newbury, 24; Gr A R Langley, 12; Br W P Winsby, 25; total, 78. Grand total, 210. The competitors from No. 4 Battery were Sgt. Parker Hibben, Sgt. G. Crowther, Corp. N. Hibben, Gr. H. L. Salmon, Gr. R Romfray, Gr. Tyson, Gr. Caldwell and Gr. Buckler. Their total for 16 shots was 65. The four highest were Sgts. P Hibben and George Crowther, Corporal N. Hibben, and Gunner Romfray with a total of forty-nine for three shots apiece. Their grand total was 114. The time allowed was six minutes for the three shots and the score made by the winning team was the best ever made on the range. No. 2 battery will fire to-morrow.

A Bold Robbery.

On Tuesday evening, whilst Mr. Russell and family, residing near Russell's station, were at dinner, a Chinaman entered the residence, and stole a quantity of jewelry valued at $140. The thief made his escape and offered part of the stolen property at Mr. Aaronson's pawn store. Mr. Aaronson attempted to arrest the thief but he escaped before the police arrived. Special Officer Miller arrested the Chinese cook employed by Mr. Russell and he was charged to-day in the Provincial Court with aiding and abetting the man who stole the valuables. The case was remanded until Tuesday next.

Entertainment.

Steps are being taken to get up a dramatic entertainment by the men of H. M. S. Wild Goose, to be held next Thursday evening in the Temperance Hall, Esquimalt, when the parody on three acts of the Ticket of Leave Man will be rendered. Admission only 25 cents. All are invited.

THE ABYSSINIA

Lands in Esquimalt this Afternoon—Her Mails and Passengers.

The Abyssinia, the pioneer vessel of the Canadian Pacific Steamship Service, arrived in Esquimalt harbor shortly after one o'clock to day. This makes her third inward trip. She carried a full list of passengers, a large mail and considerable freight. She was then drawing some 20 feet of water. She left Yokohama on the 3rd, thus taking fifteen days to make the trip to this port. For several days after leaving Yokohama heavy weather was encountered, which lasted for several days. On nearing this coast the weather moderated and a pleasant trip was ended in water as smooth as glass. Soon as she got inside the harbor Capt. Webber, officers Jackson, Hunter and Gardiner boarded her, as did also Mr. Cairns, deputy postmaster, for the mails. Dr. Jackson pronounced the vessel the cleanest he had yet seen. He congratulated Capt. Lee in this respect, in presenting him with a clean bill of health. Mr. Cairns then set to work, with the assistance of Purser Frey (to whom we are indebted for files of late China and Japan journals), to sort out the bags for Victoria—a task more difficult than most people have any conception of. Officer Hunter, of H. M. customs, was on the lookout to prevent any infringement of the duties. Capt. Webber was handed the ship's papers, and with these left for the city to enter and clear the ship at the Customs house. Mr. Gardiner, Chinese Inspector, was late in reaching the vessel. He was preceded by Mon Kow and several leading Chinese merchants who went on board to greet their fellow countrymen. The vessel was in charge of Capt. Urquhart, who will bring her round off the outer wharf where the mails and passengers will be landed, and Capt. Webber hand Capt. Lee his clearance papers.

A number of gentlemen going through to London drove into the city with Capt. Webber and others. Amongst the number was Mr. A. Stewart of Messrs. Adamson, Bell & Co., Yokohama. From Mr. Stewart it was learned the Can. Pacific route is becoming very popular in both China and Japan. More passengers are offering than can be carried. The cargo sent over by the Port Victor arrived in fine condition, the claims for damages in her case being almost nil. Mr. Stewart and comrades will remain in Victoria until Sunday morning, when they go east via the Yosemite and New Westminster. These gentlemen speak warmly of the trip and the excellent accommodation afforded by the ship throughout, as well as the gentlemanly conduct of her officers.

The passenger list embraced Mr. J. Musgrave, cabin for Vancouver. For Victoria there were, second class, Mr. and Mrs. Chun Hong Fook, Mr. J. Gray and 7 in the steerage, all Chinese. For Portland there were 2 steerage passengers. For San Francisco, second class passengers, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Goldstein and two children, Mrs. Goldstein, and 7 in the steerage, 5 Chinese and 2 Japanese. For New York, 3 cabin passengers, Mrs. N. Martin, Mr. Y. King and Mr. P. C. Hearman. For Liverpool, cabin, Mr. J. H. B. Allen, Mr. S. Akaba and servant, Mr. A. S. Goold. Second class, Messrs. G. Evans and J. B. Scott.

CHEMAINUS NEWS.

Returned from Quebec—Sportsmen's Luck—Bad Weather.

Mr. and Mrs. Conway and family have returned from Quebec where they spent a month and thus had full opportunity of seeing what was to be seen. The trip was an enjoyable one, except for the illness of their little son. Fifteen years ago Mr. Conway was there before; but the changes and improvements since that time are very marked. During their stay in that city the "beautiful" descended twice, while the temperature too was beginning to manifest to them considerable of the wintry aspect. Returning they felt the change upon entering our own salubrious province.

Mr. John Croft has just returned from his fifth mountain tour for this summer and we are pleased to say it was quite in advance of former tours. With his guide, he was absent four days, but on the morning of the second day shortly after leaving camp he came upon a large number of deer and succeeded in felling three in quick succession. Two of the heads when brought in and examined were unhesitatingly pronounced the finest yet shot in the locality and they are to be prepared and sent to England. Unfortunately the last night the tent caught fire, but no further damage was done. Mr. Henry Croft, M.P.P., and Mr. Kemp too spent two days and we are told not without success.

We occasionally have the pleasure of meeting our friend who was once honorably styled the third candidate, and although he does not speak on such matters now, yet we do not forget how he captivated us then.

The last three days have been very disagreeable, especially to any one who chanced to be travelling or who may have had out-door work to attend to. Withal the roads are in a very good state.

THE GREAT CONSPIRACY.

The seditious letter given to Mr. W. Duncan by Messrs. Turner, Macdonald, Berton & Co., was dated Nov. 16, 1886, and was as follows:

To the Lovers of Civil and Religious Liberty in America:

The bearer, Mr. William Duncan, for thirty years a devoted missionary of religion and civilization in British North America, and during the whole of that period well known to the undersigned, is on his way to Washington, deputed by the native Christian brethren of Metlakahtla, to confer with the United States authorities on matters affecting their interest and desire.

Like the Pilgrim Fathers of old, this afflicted but prospering and thrifty flock seek a refuge from grievous wrongs, and hope to find it under the American flag. They prefer abandoning the home of their fathers and the precious fruits of their industry to submitting to the violent seizure of their land and the intolerable stings of religious greed and interference. We therefore most respectfully commend Mr. Duncan and his mission to such brothers and friends in our sister country—the land of the free—as may be disposed to use their influence in aid of the oppressed.

(Signed),

E. Cridge, Bishop of B. E. C., resident since 1854.

B. W. Pearse, formerly Surveyor-General, Vancouver Island; also Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works, B. C.; also Resident Engineer, P. W. Department, Canada; resident since 1851.

W. J. Macdonald, Life Senator of the Dominion Parliament of Canada from British Columbia; resident since 1850.

Turner, Berton & Co., Merchants, British Columbia.

J. H. Turner, Member of Provincial Parliament, Victoria, B. C.

The anniversary of the crime occurred on Wednesday last, and the following day the government of the province, Mr. Turner being a member, joined with the Dominion Government in proclaiming a national thanksgiving day. No doubt as a good Christian he thanked the Unseen that "a refuge from grievous wrong" had been found by citizens of Canada in "the land of the free." We observe by the Alaskan that the Metlakahtlans, in filing a claim to Annette Island, have set it forth with the following preamble:

"Whereas, The people of Metlakahtla upon Port Chester, Annette Island, in the District of Alaska, United States of America, formerly residents of Metlakahtla, British Columbia, in number from six hundred to one thousand men, women and children, native North Americans, have long since abandoned their tribal relations and have become a civilized, law-abiding and Christian people and are desirous of obtaining homes and lands in severalty and the other rights and privileges of civilized and Christian nations. Which rights and privileges have been, from no fault of their own, denied to them at their old home in British Columbia;

"And whereas, In protest of such treatment and in the hope and expectation of acquiring title in the United States to their future homes, churches and public buildings, they have abjured and forever renounce all allegiance to all foreign princes, potentates and powers, and especially to the Queen of Great Britain and Ireland, to whom they were formerly subjects, and have abandoned their former homes and possessions and have emigrated in a body into the District of Alaska, in the United States of America."

It will, we feel convinced, please Messrs. Turner and Macdonald to learn that their letter to Mr. Duncan had the desired effect, and that from six hundred to one thousand Britishers have abjured and forever renounced allegiance to the Queen of Great Britain. Annette Island contains about sixty square miles, and Mr. Turner's emigrants are applying for the whole of it.

"THE NOBLEST ROMAN OF THEM ALL."

There is considerable diversity of opinion in the east as to the probability of the Hon. Edward Blake entering the Imperial House of Commons, and resigning his seat for West Durham in the Commons of Canada. A well known leading member of the Liberal party, writing to a friend in Victoria, states that those in the honorable gentleman's confidence are of the opinion that he intends on his return to lay the matter before his constituents and political friends. It is no secret that for some time past a movement in the direction of Mr. Blake seeking a larger arena for the display of his magnificent talents was on foot. During his visit to Britain in 1885 he created a favorable impression with the leaders of Liberal opinion there. It is a well known fact that both Mr. Gladstone and Lord Rosebery strongly pressed upon Mr. Blake the importance his presence in the House of Commons would be, not only to the United Kingdom and Ireland, but likewise to the whole Empire. It was held by these distinguished personages that Mr. Blake's course on the Home Rule question in Canada would add strength to Ireland's cause and the Imperial Liberal party. It is now rumored that with this object in view they have been in communication with the leader of Liberal opinion in Canada, and have offered him an Irish constituency, with a prospective seat in the Cabinet on the return of the Liberals to office.

On the other hand it is known that Mr. Blake has been anxious to make a personal investigation of the grievances under which the people labored. We cannot do better than quote the opinion expressed by The Irish Canadian—as thoroughly paced a Conservative journal as is to be found in the Dominion—concerning the distinguished gentleman's visit to Ireland: "Mr. Blake saw for himself "the misery of the people, and though "in feeble health and at the risk of "imprisonment in an Irish dungeon, "he advised them to combine against "the landlords. Many are the past "services he has rendered the cause "of truth and justice, but the service "by Edward Blake to the Irish people is the 'crowning of the edifice.' "He has placed the children of the "Irish nation the world over under a "deep debt of gratitude—and we in "Canada can only repay him in one "way. Hereafter, let our people give "to him in political action a reciprocity hearty and full. He is of us "and with us in this grand work—"the grand work of Ireland's redemption. Never let it be said of the "Irishmen of Canada that they are "ungrateful to him or unmindful of "his great services; and, when opportunity offers, let us rally like one "man in favor of the great Irish Canadian. Edward Blake, whose voice "and action have stamped him 'the "noblest Roman of them all.'"

Now that he has witnessed the harrowing scenes so often pictured by pen, but generally miscredited by people outside the "Green Isle" on his return to Canada we will learn from his own lips the impressions formed, and suggestions as to a remedy. It is to be hoped, however, that Canada is not destined to lose the services of this her most gifted and talented son, who already has given the best years of his life to the service of his country; he having worked in her interest greatly to the detriment of his own and to the serious injury of his health. The Montreal Herald referring to the subject states that had Mr. Blake sought occupation at the English bar after the Mackenzie defeat in 1878, and distinction in English politics, there can be no doubt that he would be to-day high up if not at the top of the legal tree. At that time he would have found very few rivals on the Liberal side of English politics of equal legal attainments with himself. Sir Farrer Herschell, now Lord Chancellor of England, was a practising barrister, and those who are fairly well acquainted with the lights of the English bar do not find it easy to name Mr. Blake's superior as a lawyer and a political leader. It is true that Mr. Blake would not have found a Tory ministry using the public purse for the purpose of corrupting the English House of Commons, or the public domain parcelled out to purchase support for the Tory leader, but his talents would have found other and more agreeable openings for their exercise than the necessary denunciation of an almost unparalleled system of bribery. However, he did not go then, and the earnest hope is that he will not go now.

CITY COUNCIL.

Opinion from the City Barrister on the Contract for Supply of Pipes.

The regular weekly meeting was held on Wednesday night. Present—His Worship Mayor Fell, Councillors Pearse, Grant, Styles, Higgins, Braden, Vigelius and Harris.

Minutes of previous meeting read and adopted.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From T. C. Sorby, requesting permission to use earth from mound on Burdette avenue. Referred to Street Committee.

From M. W. T. Drake, asking for payment of amount expended on sidewalk on Humboldt street. Ordered to be paid.

From J. S. Yates, regarding defective drainage at city landing. Referred to Street Committee.

From five ratepayers, praying for a sidewalk on Carr street, James Bay. Referred to Street Committee.

From B. Williams, requesting the Council to drain Ellice street. Referred to Street Committee.

From W. Buckett and Pendray & Co., for permission to plant shade trees in front of their premises. Granted.

From L. H. Solly, regarding the high sidewalk in front of his premises, which would not allow him ingress to a stable on the premises on Montreal street. Referred to Street Committee.

From T. Haughton, asking that a sidewalk be laid in front of new brick store on Yates street. Referred to Street Committee with power to act.

From C. Hayward, on behalf of citizens' committee requesting the Council to defray the deficit in connection with the reception of "C" Battery. The amount collected being $149, and the expenditure $281.87. Deficit ordered paid from funds of the corporation.

From Edwin Johnson, legal adviser, informing the Council that it would be illegal to again vote on the Library By-Law this year.

Coun. Grant said he was sorry to find that the law was imperative on this question, and moved that the by-law be withdrawn for the present. Carried.

From the legal adviser, requesting that counsel be appointed to contest the appeal to be taken in the Supreme Court in the case of Sherman Lewis, convicted for attempting to supply liquor to Indians. Referred to the Mayor and Police Committee.

The following legal opinion on the specifications and contract to be signed by the Albion Iron Works and the corporation was read:

To His Worship the Mayor in Council:

At the request of the water commissioner and several Councillors, I have perused the specifications and contract for the water works and I regret not being able to approve altogether of the proposed agreement, which it would have been better, in a matter of such importance to have drawn by a member of the bar. The agreement seems to me to be too lax in the following among other particulars: It does not limit a time for the commencement of the work; it does not expressly say who is to furnish the material; it provides for the payment of 45 per cent., nearly half, before any material has been delivered or work done (delivery to the contractors is not delivery to the corporation); 95 per cent is to be paid before it is possible to let the work, and upon the certificate of the water commissioner that the money is due—not that the work has been properly done; and only 5 per cent. is reserved for the discovery of omissions and defects on completion. Moreover there is no guarantee on the part of the contractors, nor any provision beyond the 5 per cent., for the remedy of defects discovered after payment.

Of course, if the Council should think fit to waive all these points and rely solely on the honor of the contractors, then the agreement may be signed in its present state.

(Signed) Edwin Johnson,
Legal Adviser.

Couns. Higgins and Braden thought the legal adviser did not understand the matter. There are bonds and good ones.

The Water Commissioner said the contract was drawn up by a legal gentleman; the bonds are for 10 per cent of the amount of tender.

Coun. Grant—Is ten per cent stated in the contract?

Water Commissioner—No; there were so many obstacles thrown in my way that I had to get the legal adviser of the Albion Iron Works Co. to assist in drawing up the contract.

Coun. Grant said the specifications were got up in a most unbusiness-like way; no time stated to commence the work and no time for completion. Mr. Johnson's views were well worthy of consideration and, although the councillor was willing to assist in furnishing a better water supply he would not be a party to an illegal act. Coun. Grant considered the Albion Iron Works Co. a most responsible one; but, if some other firm had secured the contract without a time limit, the water supply might continue in its present condition as long as it pleased the contractors.

Coun. Styles wished the contract and specifications read.

Coun. Braden said he was getting sick of this water business; many civic contracts were let without any time limit; the legal adviser submitted a most ridiculous opinion, and does not appear to know what he is expressing an opinion on.

Coun. Pearse thought the Water Committee were being treated in a most discourteous manner by a majority of the Council; he could only reiterate the sentiments expressed on former occasions, that the new scheme was illegal until submitted to the people. The constant custom was to consult the committees, but this Council was acting in a different manner. Coun. Pearse moved that the legal opinion be submitted to the Water Committee.

The clerk then read the contract and specifications.

Coun. Grant said that the contract was never read in open Council before, and he was now convinced that the contention, regarding no time limit having been fixed for the completion of the work, was correct.

Coun. Pearse said that his opinion in reference to submitting the specifications and contract to the Water Committee was strengthened after hearing them read. The speaker had let numerous small contracts whilst in the Government service, but none were let in the manner proposed by the contract just read.

Coun. Harris—There is no necessity to take up more time on this question. I move that the communication be received and filed and the seal of the city attached to the contract.

His Worship—Such things as this has occurred in larger cities; there is something behind the scenes and the people will either endorse your action or reject you in a short time. You have had your say, gentlemen, and I will now tell you that whilst I occupy this position the seal will not be attached. I have had legal advice on this question and will not agree to your stove-pipe transactions. There is a ring in this Council and they can distinctly understand that I will not put the motion.

Coun. Braden—Now, your Worship, in answer—

His Worship—I don't want your answer.

Coun. Braden—Your Worship wants to know—

His Worship—I don't want to know anything, Coun. Braden.

Coun. Harris—Your Worship said something about a ring.

His Worship—If the cap fits anyone he may wear it.

Coun. Harris—You should withdraw the ring business.

Coun. Braden—You make assertions you cannot prove. If there is a ring it is a big one and you are in it. You are a coward.

Coun. Vigelius—The time is arriving when the fire election will be held and it will be necessary to appoint a returning officer.

Coun. Styles—This contract business must be settled first.

His Worship—If you are not going on with other business I will leave. The water question will come before the people in a short time, and if you are right they will return you.

Coun. Braden—Don't you represent the people?

His Worship—That's what I do, and if the business is not going on I will take to Coun. Higgins' illustrious corkscrew and leave the meeting.

Coun. Higgins handed an appeal to the clerk.

Coun. Grant—The appeal contains words which Your Worship did not utter. The appeal cannot be taken because the Mayor gave no decision.

Coun. Braden—Those were the exact words. If Your Worship—

His Worship—I know what I said.

Coun. Braden—When a councillor gets up he expects to be treated like a gentleman and not like a bully.

His Worship—Good night, gentlemen.

The Chair was then vacated, and the Councillors left their seats.

Pleasing Event.

Mr. Doran's New Inn, Esquimalt, was the scene of a very pleasing incident on Wednesday Evening. Mr. Agnis, late bandmaster H. M. S. Triumph, having invited the band to a farewell supper; the opportunity was taken advantage of to present him with a valuable Bb clarinette as a souvenir of the respect and esteem in which he had been held while serving. Accompanying it was a well-executed address, as follows:

H. M. S. Triumph, Esquimalt, Nov. 16, 1887.

Dear Sir,—While congratulating you on obtaining your pension after so many years honorable service, it is with great regret that we part from you. During the time in which you have been with us, we have found you to be an able musician, an indulgent master, and a kind friend, and we beg of you to accept the accompanying clarinette as a token of the esteem and regard in which you are held. We trust your future will be prosperous and happy, and assure you that you will always possess the good wishes of The Band.

The presentation having been made by Band Sergeant Clark, Mr. Agnis responded, expressing his surprise and gratification at the honor conferred on him, thanking the band for their kindness, and wishing them all a pleasant and prosperous voyage home. Mine host, Doran's caterership was all that could be desired, and after doing ample justice to the viands provided, a very enjoyable evening was spent by all.

A Common Cold

Is often the beginning of serious affections of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes, and Lungs. Therefore, the importance of early and effective treatment cannot be overestimated. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral may always be relied upon for the speedy cure of a Cold or Cough.

Last January I was attacked with a severe Cold, which, by neglect and frequent exposures, became worse, finally settling on my lungs. A terrible cough soon followed, accompanied by pains in the chest, from which I suffered intensely. After trying various remedies, without obtaining relief, I commenced taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and was Speedily Cured.

I am satisfied that this remedy saved my life.—Jno. Webster, Pawtucket, R. I.

I contracted a severe cold, which suddenly developed into Pneumonia, presenting dangerous and obstinate symptoms. My physician ordered the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. His instructions were followed, and the result was a rapid and permanent cure.—H. E. Stimpson, Rogers Prairie, Tex.

Two years ago I suffered from a severe Cold, which settled on my Lungs. I consulted various physicians, and took the medicines they prescribed, but received only temporary relief. A friend induced me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking two bottles of this medicine I was cured. Since then I have given the Pectoral to my children, and consider it for Colds, Coughs, and all Throat and Lung diseases, ever used in my family.—Robert Vanderpool, Meadville, Pa.

Some time ago I took a slight Cold, which, being neglected, grew worse, and settled on my Lungs. I had a hacking cough, and was very weak. Those who knew me best considered my life to be in great danger. I continued to suffer until I commenced using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Less than one bottle of this valuable medicine cured me, and I feel that I owe the preservation of my life to its curative powers.—Mrs. Ann Lockwood, Akron, New York.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is considered, here, the one great remedy for all diseases of the throat and lungs, and is more in demand than any other medicine of its class.—J. F. Roberts, Magnolia, Ark. ††

A HARD BARGAIN.

By WALTER BESANT.

I signed my name as desired, and, following the directions of the gentleman, placed my finger on the red wafer at the margin, saying, "I declare this my act and deed."

Then I gave the pen to Boule-de-neige. He signed after me, in a firm, flowing hand, "Boule-de-neige." As I looked, the letters seemed somehow to shape themselves into "Beelzebub." I looked at him with a kind of terror. The creature grinned in my face as if he divined my thoughts, and gave utterance to one of his hideous "clucks."

Then I began to feel the same faintness which I had at first experienced. It mounted upward from my feet slowly, so that I heard the old gentleman's voice, though I saw nothing. It grew gradually fainter.

"Supper at 10, Boule-de-neige," he was saying; "I feel getting hungry already. What shall I do with myself till 10 o'clock? I am certainly getting hungry. I think I can have it served at 9:30. Oh, blessed day! Oh, thankful, blessed day! Boule-de-neige, it must be supper for three—for four—for five. I shall have champagne—the Perrier Jouet—the Curacoa punch afterward. Curacoa punch—I haven't tasted it for three months and more. Oh, what a blessed—blessed—blessed!"——

I heard no more because my senses failed me altogether, and his voice died away in my ears.

When I came to myself I was leaning against the post in Bucklersbury, where I had met the old man.

A whiff of stale cooked meat from the cookshop, which caught me as I opened my eyes, produced a singular feeling of disgust. "Pah," I muttered, "roast mutton!" and moved from the spot. My hunger was gone, that was quite certain. I felt a quietness about those regions, wherever they may be, which belong to appetite. I was almost dreamy in the repose which followed a morning so stormy. I walked quietly away homeward in a kind of daze, trying to make out something of what had happened. The first thing I found I could not remember was the name of the old gentleman. When that came back to me and under what circumstances I will tell you as we get along. Bit by bit I recalled the whole events of the afternoon, one after the other. I saw the old man, with his purple face and bloodshot eyes and white hair; I saw the wrinkled and seamed old negro; I saw the octagonal room without doors or windows; the splendid dinner; the host watching fay every gesture; I remembered everything except the name of the man to whom I had sold—my appetite.

It was so strange that I laughed when I thought of it. I must have been drunk; he gave me a good dinner and I took too much wine; but, then, how was it that I remembered clearly every—even the smallest—detail?

On the bed in the one room which constituted my lodging I found a letter. It was from a firm of lawyers, dated that evening at 6:30—only a half an hour after I signed the paper—stating that they were empowered by a client whose name was not mentioned to give me the sum of £30 monthly, to begin from that day and to be paid me personally. How did they get their instructions then? And it was all true!

I was too tired with the day's adventures to think any more; and though it was only 9 o'clock I went to bed and fell fast asleep. In an hour I awoke again with a choking sensation, as if I was eating too much. I knew instantly what was going on, and by a kind of prophetic insight. The old man was taking his supper, and taking more than was good—for me. I sprang from the bed gasping for breath. Presently, as I gathered, he began to drink, too, and soon after, with a heavy fall, I rolled senseless on the carpet and remembered nothing more.

It was early in the morning when I awoke, still lying on the floor. I had a splitting headache. I had fallen against some corner of the furniture and blackened one eye. I had broken two chairs somehow or other. I was cold, ill, and shaken. I got into bed, and tried to remember what had happened. Clearly I must have made a drunken beast of myself over the dinner, and reeled home with my head full of fancies and dreams; perhaps the dinner itself was a dream and a hallucination too; if so, the pangs of hunger would soon recommence. But they did not. Then I fell asleep, and did not awake again till the clock struck 12. How ill and wretched I felt as I dressed! My hand shook, my eyes were red, my face swollen. Surely I must have been intoxicated. I had been, up to that day at least, a temperate man, partly, no doubt, from the very wholesome reason which keeps so many of us sober—the necessity of poverty; but of course I had not arrived at four and twenty years and seen so much of the world without recognizing the signs of too much drink. I had them, every one; and, as most men know too well, they are all summed up in the simple expression, "hot coppers." Alas! I was destined to become only too familiar with the accursed symptoms. Involuntarily, when I had dressed myself, I put my hands in my pockets, those pockets so often empty; there was money, gold—sovereigns—my pocket was full of them. I counted them in a stupor. Forty-nine, and one rolled into the corner—fifty; it was part of the sum for which I had sold my appetite; and on the table lay the letter from Messrs. Crackett & Charges, inviting me to draw £30 a month.

Then it was all true!

I sat down, and with my throbbing temples and feverish pulse, tried to make it out. Everything became plain except the name of the purchaser—Mr.—Mr.——. I remembered Boule-de-neige, the house, the room and the dinner, but not the name of that arch deceiver, the whole of whose villainy I was far from realizing yet; and until it was told me later on I never did remember the name.

It was strange. Men are said to have sold their souls to the devil for money, bartering away an eternity of happiness for a few years of pleasure; but as for me, I had exchanged, as it seemed at first sight, nothing but the inconvenience of a healthy appetite with nothing to eat for the means of living comfortably without it. There could be no sin in such a transaction; it was on a different level altogether from the bargain made by Faust. And there were the bread, the benevolent facts, so to speak—my pockets full of sovereigns; and the letter instructing me to call at an office for £30 monthly.

Benevolent facts I thought them. You shall see. You think, as I thought, that no sin could be laid at my door for the transaction. You shall judge. You think, as I thought, that no harm could follow so simple a piece of business. You shall read. On my way out I met the landlady, who gave me notice to quit at the end of the week.

"I thought you were a quiet and a sober young man," she said. "Ah, never will I trust to good looks again. Me and the lodgers kept awake till 2 o'clock in the morning with your singing and dancing, let alone banging the floor with the chairs! Not another hour after your week's up, if you was to pray on your knees, shall you stay. And next thow threatening the constables; and me a quiet woman for twenty years!"

My heart sank again. But after all, perhaps it was I myself, not the good old gentleman, my kind patron and benefactor, at all, who was the cause of this disturbance. It was undoubtedly true that I had taken a great quantity of wine with my splendid dinner. I begged her pardon humbly, and passed out.

It was now nearly 1 o'clock, but I felt no desire for breakfast. That was an experience quite novel to me. Still I went to a coffee house, according to habit, and ordered some tea and a rasher. When they came I discovered, with a horrid foreboding of worse misfortune behind, that my taste was gone. Except that one thing was solid and the other liquid, I distinguished nothing. Nor did my sense of smell assist me; as I found later, my nose was affected agreeably or disagreeably, but it lost all its discriminating and critical powers. Gunpowder, sulphuretted hydrogen gas and tobacco offended my nose. So did certain smells belonging to cookery. On the other hand, certain flowers, tea and claret pleased me, but I was unable to distinguish between them. Not only could I not tase them, but I had no gratification in eating them. I ate and drank mechanically, because I knew that the body must be kept going on something.

All this knowledge, however, and more, came by degrees. After making a forced breakfast I bent my steps to the lawyers', who had an office in Lincoln's Inn Fields.

The letter was received by a conceited young clerk in shiny black habiliments, a turned up nose, and a self satisfied manner.

"Ha!" he said, "I thought you would soon come round to us after the letter. Sign that. You haven't been long. None of them are."

It was a receipt, and I was on the point of asking if it was to be signed in blood, when he settled the question by giving me the ink.

"There, Luke Lucraft, across the eightpenny stamp. I'm not allowed to answer any questions you may put, Mr. Lucraft, nor to ask you any; so take your money and good morning to you. I suppose, like the rest of them, you don't know the name of your benefactor, and would like to—yes; but you needn't ask me, and I've orders not to admit you to see either Mr. Charges or Mr. Crackett. They'd trouble enough with the last but one. He broke into their office once, drunk, and laid about him with the ruler."

I burst into a cold dew of terror.

"However, Mr. Lucraft, I hope you will be more fortunate than your predecessors."

"Where are they? Who are they?"

"I do not know where they are, not for a certainty," he replied with a grin. But we may guess. Dead and buried they are, all of them. Gone to kingdom come; all died of the same thing, too—D. T. Delicious trimmings killed them. Poor old gentleman! He's too good for this world, as everybody knows, and the more he's taken in the more he's deceived. Anyhow, he's very unlucky in his pensioners. He did say when the last went off that he would have no more; he wept over it, and declared that his bounty was always abused; but there never was such a benevolent old chap. I only wish he'd take a fancy to me."

"What did you say is his name, by the way?"

The clerk looked at me with a cunning wink.

"If you don't know, I am sure I do not," he said. "Here is the check, Mr. Lucraft, and I hope you will continue to come here and draw it a good deal longer than the other chaps. But there's a blight on all the pensioners. Lord, what a healthy chap Tom Kirby—he was a Monmouth man—looked when he first came for his checks! As strong as a bull and as fresh as a lark."

"A good appetite had he?"

"No; couldn't eat anything after a bit; said he fancied nothing. Lost his taste entirely. He pined away and died in a galloping consumption before the third month was due. Nobody ever saw him drinking, but he was drunk every night, regular, like the rest. Perhaps it's only coincidence. Better luck to you, Mr. Lucraft."

This conversation did not reassure me, and I determined to go over to Bucklersbury at once and see my patron. I found the post against which I was leaning when he accosted me; there was no doubt about that, for the hares and cauliflowers were still in the shop window, only they looked disgusting to me this morning. I found the street into which he had led me, and then—then—it was the most extraordinary thing—I could not find the door by which we entered. Not only was there no door, but there seemed no place where such a door as I remembered could exist in this little, narrow, winding street. I went up and down twice. I looked at all the windows. I asked a policeman if he had ever seen an old gentleman about the street such as I described, or such a negro as Boule-de-neige; but he could give no information. Only as I prowled slowly along the pavement I heard distinctly—it gave me a nervous shock that I could not account for—the infernal "Cluck-cluck!" of the negro with the cold, soft hands, the wrinkled skin and the fiery red eyes. He was chuckling at me from some hiding place of his own, where he was safe. He had done me no harm that I knew of, but I hated him at that moment.

I was by this time not at all elated at my good fortune. I even craved to have back again what I had sold. I felt heavy at heart, and had a presentiment of fresh trouble before me. I thought of the fate of those unknown and unfortunate predecessors, all dead in consequence of drink, evil courses and D. T. Heavens! was I too to die miserably with delirium tremens, after I had sold my taste, and could only tell brandy from water, like the cask which might hold either, by the smell?

At 1:30—the luncheon time for all who have appetites—the sense of being gorged came upon me again, but this time without the giddiness. I went to a tavern in the Strand and fell sound asleep. When I awoke at 6 the oppression had passed away. And now I began to realize something of the consequences of my act. I say something, because worse, far worse, remained behind. I was doomed, I saw clearly, to be the victim of the old man's gluttony. He would eat and I should suffer. Already, as I guessed from the clerk's statements, he had killed four strong men before me. I was to be the fifth. I went again to Bucklersbury, and sought in every house for something that might give me a clew. I loitered in the quiet city streets in the hope of finding my tormentor, and forcing him to give me back my bond. There was no clew, and I did not meet him. But I felt him. He began dinner, as nearly as I could feel, about 7 o'clock; he took his meal with deliberation, judging from the gradual nature of my sensations; but he took an amazing quantity, and by 8 o'clock the weight upon me was so great that I could scarcely breathe. How I cursed my folly! How I impotently writhed under the burden I had wantonly laid upon myself! And then he began to drink. The fiend, the scoundrel, I felt the fumes mount to my head; there was no exhilaration, no forgetfulness of misery; none of the pleasant gradations of excitement, hope and confidence through which men are accustomed to pass before arriving at the final stage, the complete oblivion of intoxication. I felt myself getting gradually but hopelessly drunk. I struggled against the feeling, but in vain; the houses went round and round with me; my speech, when I tried to speak, became thick; the flags of the pavement flew up and struck me violently on the forehead, and I became unconscious of what happened afterward.

Prodigious Panther.

The Sardonyx Seized.

The steamship Sardonyx was seized at Nanaimo on Friday by Collector of Customs Smith, for an alleged infraction of the customs laws. The charge is that the vessel cleared from Victoria for Portland, touching at Nanaimo for coal, where the customs house was ignored. Capt. Meyer deposited $400 and the ship was released. The case is similar to that against the American vessel Mastick, seized a few days ago.

The Dry Dock.

OTTAWA, Nov. 13.—A gentleman, just returned from British Columbia, says the Esquimalt graving dock has been injured by the pressure of water from underneath, owing to the dock not being built on solid rock.

The above is news to the people of this city. We are afraid some gentleman who returned from British Columbia has drawn too generously upon very vivid imaginations.

Important.

The Fire Election.

Mr. C. N. Gowen's card appears in this issue and is worthy of the consideration of the electors. This gentleman has been an active and energetic member of the department, and has occupied the position of foreman for the past two years. Mr. Chas. Gowen, father of the candidate, was a member of the volunteer department from the time of its organization, and was a member when the department disbanded. Mr. C. Gowen is one of our most respected citizens.

Well Done, Hector.

Many of THE TIMES' readers from Winnipeg will remember "old Hector McLean," a real estate notable and a prominent boomer of the 1881-2 days. In his time Hector was Jack of all trades. Some months since he left Winnipeg for San Diego, where he entered into the undertaking business. The people there did not die fast enough to suit Hector's money making notions. The report now reaches us that he has wooed and won the hand of a San Diego fair one, whose age is 85 and fortune $100,000. The lady's friends object to the alliance, whereat the ancient couple eloped to Los Angeles, where the marriage took place.

Don't

let that cold of yours run on. You think it is a light thing? But it may run into catarrh. Or into pneumonia. Or consumption.

Catarrh is disgusting. Pneumonia is dangerous. Consumption is death itself.

The breathing apparatus must be kept healthy and clear of all obstructions and offensive matter. Otherwise there is trouble ahead.

All the diseases of these parts, head, nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs, can be delightfully and entirely cured by the use of Boschee's German Sprup. If you don't know this already, thousands and thousands of people can tell you. They have been cured by it, and "know how it is themselves." Bottle only 75 cents. Ask any druggist.

Maude Granger.

At the Victoria Theatre to-night Miss Maude Granger and an excellent company will open in The Planter's Wife. An exchange says: "Never since the temple of art has been dedicated has there appeared such an artist as Maude Granger. Possessed of a physique that would have delighted the heart of an Apollo, she holds her audience and sways them at her will. From the moment she makes her appearance on the stage until the curtain falls upon the last act every word that drops from her lips, every gesture that she makes is closely watched by her more than delighted auditors. Another great feature in her acting is the naturalness with which she clothes the character. "There is no ranting; nothing is overdrawn; she is simply natural, and that means a great deal in these days when true merit is so rarely found, especially among actresses. Her voice is full, yet sweet withal, and her facial expressions denote careful study and excellent training. She belongs to a school that has turned out such artists as Clara Morris, Mary Anderson and Margaret Mather."

Successful Dentistry.

We are pleased to hear of the great success of Dr. Hartman, dentist of this city. Several months since he invented an apparatus for cleft palate, which is known as the most intricate of arts in dentistry. His improved Artificial Dentures are a great improvement over plain rubber plates. While the Rev. Mr. Alhipple, Bishop of Minnesota, was sojourning in this city, he was recommended to Dr. Hartman for treatment, and also left his impression for a set of improved artificial teeth. The following letters speak well for what Dr. Hartman can do:

FARIBAULT, Minn., Nov. 4th, 1887.

DEAR DR. HARTMAN:—The beautiful set of teeth came to-day, and do great credit to your mechanical skill. I shall ever remember your kindness and skill in relieving my pain while sojourning in your city.
With kind regards,
Yours faithfully,
H. B. ALHIPPLE,
Bishop of Minnesota.

QUADRA STREET PARSONAGE,
Victoria, B. C., March 5th, 1887.

DEAR DR. HARTMAN:—Permit me to state that the set of teeth you made for me continue to give excellent satisfaction. They are the best set of teeth I have ever had, and both for eating and speaking I find them all that can be desired.
Yours faithfully,
REV. W. W. PERCIVAL.

Mrs. W. A. Robertson arrived from a visit to the east last night. Her many friends will be pleased to learn that her health has greatly improved. She was treated by Dr. Kinsley, a cancer specialist of Rome, New York.

Mr. John McLean, proprietor of the Occidental hotel, Quesnellemouth, is in the city and a guest at the Clarence. Mr. McLean has not been in Victoria since 1862. He does not distinguish to-day the Victoria of that period, so great is the change. Mr. McLean, however, would prefer the old town and the boys of long ago, with whom he spent so many happy days. Mac is one of the best known bonifaces on the road, and is a general favorite with all going that way.

Thanksgiving Concert.

The entertainment given last night in the Methodist Church, Pandora street, was a great success, the large edifice being crowded to its utmost capacity, the standing room as well as the sitting room being occupied by ladies as well as gentlemen. The entertainment was under the management of Mrs. G. L. A. Gall, who has every reason to be satisfied with the success of her efforts. She was ably assisted by Prof. Sharp, who presided at the organ, and by Miss Andrews at the piano. The opening chorus, with marching, "Bringing in the Sheaves," by the Sunday School, was rendered in a charming manner. At first the pupils were somewhat timid and nervous, but as they progressed their voices became natural. Next was the fine Anthem of "Praise the Lord" by the full chorus and orchestra likewise well rendered. The glee, by the Spencer quintette was loudly applauded by the audience. Mrs. Gall and the orchestra, in the overture of "The Twilight Hour," acquitted themselves acceptably and were deservedly applauded. The hymn, "The Reapers," by the full chorus and the orchestra was given in fine style and captivated the audience who loudly applauded the performers at its close. Miss Jeffrie's recitation of "An Autumn Sketch" displayed careful training. The piece was given in a manner second only to an experienced professional. The Misses Frank's piano duett was well rendered and received an encore. The hymn, "Work to do for Jesus," by the full chorus and orchestra was one of the gems of the evening. The recitation of the four seasons represented by four charming young maidens, brought the first part of the programme to a close. The little girls were accompanied by a full chorus. The pastor of the congregation, the Rev. J. E. Starr, then gave a brief, spirited, humorous address, after which the collection was taken up, the amount of which was $37. Prof. Sharpe then gave an organ solo in which he displayed his familiarity with that fine instrument. He was followed by the anthem of "Glory to God" by the full chorus and orchestra. Never before was the grand anthem of "Glory to God in the Highest," so well rendered. The instrumental duet on the cornet and trombone by Messrs. Arnold and Blower was creditably rendered and applauded. The hymn, "Busy Little Gleaners Gathering in the Early Dawn," was also given by the full chorus and orchestra, followed by a medley of familiar airs by Mrs. Gall and the orchestra. The programme closed with the hymn "Where has thou gleaned, weary gleaner, whence cometh thou?" &c. It was the best executed piece of the evening. Mr. Gardiner moved a vote of thanks to those who had been instrumental in getting up such an excellent entertainment. It was seconded by the Rev. Mr. Starr who expressed the wish that as many had been turned away the entertainment should be repeated again to-night. On putting the vote of thanks it was carried, as was also the desire that the affair be repeated to-night. The National Anthem closed the most successful entertainment of the kind ever held in this city.

A Soldier's Welcome.

Lieut.-Col. Wolfenden, Major Prior, Surgeon Matthews, Capts. Snowden, Nicholles, Smallfield, Shears and Dorman, Lieuts. Irving, Robson and Quinlan, of the B. C. G. A., entertained the officers of "C" Battery at dinner, at the Poodle Dog restaurant, on Wednesday evening. The guests were Lieut.-Col. Holmes, Major Peters, Captains Benson, White and Jones, Lieut. Ogilvie and Dr. Duncan of "C" Battery, and Lieut. Lang, R. E. The only toast given (by Lieut.-Col. Wolfenden, who presided at the head of the table) were "The Queen" and "Our Guests." Col. Holmes responded to the latter. A very pleasant evening was passed, and it was early in the morning when the company sang "Auld Lang Syne."

Masonic Presentation.

Last Wednesday evening at the regular communication of Vancouver and Quadra Lodge, No. 2, A. F. & A. M., Past Grand Master Eli Harrison, Sr., in a neat speech on behalf of the lodge, presented Past Master Isaac Oppenheimer with a very handsome past master's jewel consisting of a five pointed star set with eleven diamonds, a wreath of foliage in different shades of gold surmounted by a crown and in the center of the wreath the forty-seventh problem of euclid. Bro. Oppenheimer returned his thanks to the lodge in a very appropriate manner. This handsome jewel was manufactured by Mr. W. H. Pennock, of Government street.

Singular changes occur in politics. The New York Sun has become the New York organ of President Cleveland and the New York World is a critic of his administration.

THE IMPROVEMENTS on a small Island situated in Departure Bay Harbor, with a two story dwelling House, three small buildings, now used for Cook and Oil Houses, one Iron Boiler for refining oil, capacity 100 gallons; a lot of Coal Oil Tins and Oil Barrels, which will hold about 2000 gallons; one 20-ton Scow, with Sails, anchors, &c., &c.; two fishing boats, 4 tons each, with oars, sails, &c., &c.; seven new Dogfish Nets, all ready for use, and three secondhand Nets and a good Landing Wharf. This Island is in the best position on Vancouver Island for the business, as there is a ready market for oil at Departure Bay and Nanaimo to supply steamers and the coal mines, and is a good investment for any person who wants to follow the business. The whole will be sold at a very reasonable figure as the owner is obliged to leave the province to transact some pressing business. For further information, price and terms, apply to D. MORRELL,
